

Editorial for Autumn Edition of the SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA 2016

Dear readers and friends,

let me introduce the third issue of the fourth volume of SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA, an international scientific online journal for the study of legal issues in the interdisciplinary context.

The journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA is issued under the auspices of the Faculty of Law of the Trnava University in Trnava, Slovakia, and it thematically focuses on social relevant interdisciplinary relations on the issues of public law and private law at the national, transnational and international levels, represented first of all by following branches of law – legal history, theory of law, roman law, canon law, constitutional law, human rights & fundamental freedoms, international law, European law, civil law, economic law & trade law, labour law, social security law, administrative law, environmental law, financial law, intellectual property law, criminal law, and criminology, connected to the key areas of social science disciplines in the broadest understanding, those represent above all international relations, public policy, public administration, psychology, sociology, demography, management and marketing, international economic relations, world economy, transnational economies, and national economies.

The journal is issued in an electronic on-line version four times a year, regularly on March 31st, June 30th, September 30th, and December 31st, and it offers a platform for publication of contributions in the form of separate papers and scientific studies as well as scientific studies in cycles, essays on current social topics or events, reviews on publications related to the main orientation of the journal, and also information or reports connected with the inherent mission of the journal.

The journal accepts and publishes exclusively only original, hitherto unpublished contributions in the Slovak language, Czech language, English language, German language, Russian language, French language, Spanish language, Polish language, Serbian language, Slovenian language, Chinese language, Japanese language, Persian language Dari, and by mutual agreement in relation to current possibilities of the editorial office also in other world languages.

The website of the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA offers the reading public information in the common graphical user interface as well as in the blind-friendly interface designed for visually handicapped readers, both parallel in the Slovak, English as well as German languages. In all those languages the journal's editorial office provides also feedback communication through its own e-mail address. At the same time the website of the journal offers readers due to the use of dynamic responsive web design accession and browsing by using any equipment that allows transmission of information via the global Internet network.

The current, third issue of the fourth volume of the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA offers a total of six separate scientific studies in four different languages – in the English, Russian, Czech, and Slovak languages. The initial study offers readers consistently clarified and exhaustively elucidated interpretation of the questions of application of the modern system of local taxes and fees in Ukraine. The following study presents very broadly, systematically, and clearly the issues concerning the key moments of development as well as the present face of international law of the sea, both from the theoretical and practical point of view. The third study brings explanation, clarification as well as very precise analysis of sanctions and their application within the criminal law in the Republic of Poland, where a special attention is given to the institutes of the criminal liability, liability for a misdemeanour as well as administrative liability and to their interrelationships. The fourth study accurately analyses and thoroughly clarifies questions relating to the competences of the United Nations Security Council connected with its possibilities to deal with the environmental threats agenda, while offering readers also the view of till present related experience and achievements. The following study carefully clarifies, analyses, and evaluates the current legal state and key results connected with the questions of corruption and its perception among the officials of the local government, both in terms of the valid Czech legislation and in terms of the own, by the authors realised survey in the Czech Republic. The final study very precisely analyses and deeply evaluates the websites' accessibility of the central public administration bodies in the Košice region from the view of applying the skip navigation mechanism.
