

Editorial for Winter Edition of the SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA 2017

Dear readers and friends,

let me introduce the fourth issue of the fifth volume of SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA, an international scientific online journal for the study of legal issues in the interdisciplinary context.

The journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA is issued under the auspices of the Faculty of Law of the Trnava University in Trnava, Slovakia, and it thematically focuses on social relevant interdisciplinary relations on the issues of public law and private law at the national, transnational and international levels, represented first of all by following branches of law – legal history, theory of law, roman law, canon law, constitutional law, human rights & fundamental freedoms, international law, European law, civil law, economic law & trade law, labour law, social security law, administrative law, environmental law, financial law, intellectual property law, criminal law, and criminology, connected to the key areas of social science disciplines in the broadest understanding, those represent above all international relations, public policy, public administration, psychology, sociology, demography, management and marketing, international economic relations, world economy, transnational economies, and national economies.

The journal is issued in an electronic on-line version four times a year, regularly on March 31st, June 30th, September 30th, and December 31st, and it offers a platform for publication of contributions in the form of separate papers and scientific studies as well as scientific studies in cycles, essays on current social topics or events, reviews on publications related to the main orientation of the journal, and also information or reports connected with the inherent mission of the journal.

The journal accepts and publishes exclusively only original, hitherto unpublished contributions in the Slovak language, Czech language, English language, German language, Russian language, French language, Spanish language, Polish language, Serbian language, Slovenian language, Chinese language, Japanese language, Persian language Dari, and by mutual agreement in relation to current possibilities of the editorial office also in other world languages.

The website of the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA offers the reading public information in the common graphical user interface as well as in the blind-friendly interface designed for visually handicapped readers, both parallel in the Slovak, English as well as German languages. In all those languages the journal's editorial office provides also feedback communication through its own e-mail address. At the same time the website of the journal offers readers due to the use of dynamic responsive web design accession and browsing by using any equipment that allows transmission of information via the global Internet network.

The current, fourth issue of the fifth volume of the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA offers a total of eight separate scientific studies, one scientific essay as well as one information in four different languages – in the English, Russian, Czech, and Slovak languages. Within the section “Studies” the first study offers readers a very complex and detailed view of the questions relating to the foreign experience and prospects of implementation of the derivative suit in the legal order of Ukraine. The following study thoroughly analyses, streamlines and exemplarily explains the issues of the institutes of rescission of contract and termination by notice concerning the labour law and civil law relations in the Slovak Republic. The third study concentrates on a very detailed systematic clarification as well as in-depth analysis of the questions of development, present shape and institutional support of international legal regime of air space. The next study offers readers systematic and thorough qualifying and clarifying of the key questions of the temporary secondment of employees to the European Union in terms of social security law in the Czech Republic. The fifth study presents, streamlines, analyses in detail and clarifies the issues of the shared economy not only in the view of the Czech legal regulation of labour relations relationships. The following study very precisely analyses, deeply explains and compares differences relating to the obstacles at employee's work in the performance of trade union function according to the legal order of the Slovak Republic. The seventh study offers the reader an extensive in-depth analysis of the questions of controlling the employees' electronic communication in the courts' decision-making processes. The final, eighth study deals with the analysis and clarification of the application of the European law in decisions of the Constitutional Court of the Slovak Republic. The following scientific essay offered in the new issue is devoted to the questions of personnel risks and their prevention. The final section “Information” brings summarising report on the XIII. Dies Luby Iurispru-dentiae held on September 28th and 29th, 2017, under the title Social Function of Law and Growing Wealth Inequality.

On the occasion of launching the fourth issue of the fifth volume of the journal I would be delighted to sincerely thank all contributors who contribute actively in it and share with the readers their knowledge, experience or extraordinary views on legal issues in their broadest social context as well as the top management of the Faculty of Law of the Trnava University in Trnava, all friends, colleagues, employees of the Faculty of Law as well as rector's administration at the Trnava University in Trnava for their support and suggestive advices and, finally, also members of journal's editorial board and editorial team.

I believe that the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA will provide a stimulating and inspirational platform for communication both on the professional level and the level of the civic society, as well as for scientific and society-wide beneficial solutions to current legal issues in context of their broadest interdisciplinary social relations, in like manner at national, regional, and international levels.

On behalf of the entire editorial board and editorial office of the journal SOCIETAS ET IURISPRUDENTIA

Yours faithfully,

Jana Koprlová
